Transcription and Translation. The synthesis of RNA is called transcription because it is simply the copying of DNA

RNA. Like the transcription of spoken language into written language, the units of information (nucleotides in nucleic acids, words in speech and writing) are the same.

Translation—the conversion of one language to

This study guide is a written version of the material you have seen presented in the replication unit. In translation, the cell uses the genetic information contained in mRNA to make the proteins that carry out the cell's work.

The cell translates the code contained in the mRNA into a new language, the language of proteins, based on amino acids. Other types of RNA, such as transfer RNA (tRNA) also assist in the protein-assembly process.

Compare the structure of RNA and DNA. DNA and RNA both consist of nucleotides which contain a sugar, a base and a phosphate group. However there are a few differences.

Firstly, DNA is composed of a double strand forming a helix whereas RNA is only composed of one strand.
